Course Description: Participants will review the statistics on the national crisis on bullying in our schools as outlined by the US Department of Education. We will examine the nature and causes of bullying and its impact on the lives of our students through the examination of the profiles of both bullies and victims. An examination of current curriculum will present opportunities for participants to review pragmatic approaches to the problem. Participants will create a viable action plan and develop steps to implement the program not only in their classrooms, but also, throughout the school. We will also preview available children's literature on this topic and develop strategies to utilize germane content to teach and train our students.
