Course Description: This intensive one-day seminar includes training in regulatory compliance, inventory control, hazardous waste disposal and the habits of safe behavior and performance. Topics include: the 3 C's of safety, scope of the problem, accidents, legal aspects, emergency planning, chemical handling, chemical storage, biological and animal hazards, eye and face protection, chemical disposal, electrical safety, safety program planning and "your most serious problem". Participants will receive the resources needed to understand the fundamentals of lab safety and to develop or improve their lab safety program. Learn simple and inexpensive (even free!) things that can be done to have a better lab safety program.

About the Laboratory Safety Institute (LSI): LSI is an international non-profit organization whose mission is to make health, safety and the environment an integral and important part of education, work, and life. LSI was founded in 1978 as The Laboratory Safety Workshop by James A. Kaufman, Ph.D.. His experience working for the Dow Chemical Company convinced him that schools and colleges were not doing enough to encourage health and safety. Studies by LSI and others have shown the accident rate at schools and colleges to be 100 to 1000 times that of Dow and DuPont. Since 1978, LSI has trained over 65,000 science educators and scientists. LSI's brand of safety training is a unique blend of technical information, practical and inexpensive solutions, humor, and accounts of accidents drawn from a collection of over 5,000 examples.
