

Civilizaciones Antiguas de las Americas: Maya, Aztecas e Incas

Co-sponsored with the EDCO Collaborative - EDCO Members please register through EDCO for discounted rates

Course Description: There is renewed emphasis on the study of Latin American history and traditions and many school districts have added these courses to their curriculum. Unfortunately, there are limited resources available as well as a lack of archaeological understanding of how to reconstruct the past of the amazing cultures that thrived prior to the Spanish conquest. This class will provide updated and accurate information on the emergence, life and collapse of three major pre Columbian civilizations: The Maya, The Aztecs and the Inca. Through archeological exercises we will gain a deeper understanding of a variety of important aspects of these cultures, including: ancient engineering practices, sophisticated writing systems, complex political structures, elaborated religion, settlement patterns, art, and innovative architectural achievements. At the end of the class, teachers will be able to critically filter textbook information, gain a deeper understanding of what we truly know and do not know about ancient Pre-Columbian cultures and improve their lesson plans with engaging, practical and fully interactive lessons.
